FLORICULTURE RULES

Definitions:

Specimen - One stem or stalk with attached foliage and blooms.

Spray - group of florets on a single branched stalk

Stalk - stiff stem or axis of plant, may include branches

Stem - supporting plant structure to which buds, leaves, and flowers are attached.

1. Classes in which there are sufficient entries may be subdivided according to type, cultivar, and/or color if the committee sees fit, and if budget for premiums is not exceeded by doing so.
2. All horticulture entries MUST HAVE BEEN GROWN BY EXHIBITOR. Container-grown plants must have been in exhibitor's possession at least 90 days, except combination plantings must have been in exhibitor's possession at least 6 weeks.
3. ONE ENTRY PER PERSON FOR EACH CLASS. Multiple entries are allowed ONLY in classes with an asterisk beside them (Class L-19*, for example). Each entry in these classes must be a different species. The fair reserves the right to withhold any premiums won in any class by an exhibitor breaking this rule.
4. Exhibitors must furnish their own clear (colorless) glass bottles filled with water. The size of the container should be appropriate for the size of the specimen. Wadding is permitted in the neck of the container to steady the specimen. The committee reserves the right to refuse any entry not in the proper container and ready to enter.
5. No cut specimen over 32 inches tall will be accepted.
6. Cut specimens, except for L-160*, must be outdoor grown.
7. An entry must be labeled with the correct botanical name to qualify for Top Awards. Botanically named cultivars will always be given preference by the judges in a close tie.
8. Cut flowers and container grown plants must be entered and placed on Sunday, September 18 between 2:00 - 6:00 p.m. Exhibits must be removed from 2:00 - 4:00 p.m. Sunday, September 25.

DIVISION I - FLORICULTURE

All the flowers of tomorrow are in the seed of today.

Premiums for Roses and All Cut Specimens: Blue $2.50; Red $2.00; Yellow $1.50

Premiums for Container Grown Plants: Blue $5.00; Red $3.50; Yellow $2.00

Award of Merit $10.00; Horticultural Excellence $15.00

PREPARATION OF HORTICULTURE SPECIMENS

Cut stems in late afternoon or early morning with a sharp knife or clippers on a slant for greatest intake of moisture. Recut and place specimens in hot tap water and place the vessel in a cool, dark place free of drafts. This is termed "conditioning" your specimens. It improves substance and holds freshness. Select only clean, clear bottles to display your specimens and transport them carefully to the flower show.

Grooming of horticulture specimens is permitted. Remove damaged leaves. No wire, oil, spray or artificial color is permitted in horticulture classes. Evidence of spray, residue, dust or insect damage must be carefully removed from specimen.

Container grown plants should be well groomed with no seedpods, no wilted flowers, no damaged or unclean foliage, no broken stems, and no "training" props visible. The container should be clean and in scale with the size of the plant.

Accessory foliage is never used with specimens, only that naturally grown on the specimen.

HELPFUL HINTS: Use only clear bottles so the stems will be visible. Wash them so the water will be clear. Use small-necked bottles to help steady the specimen. If the neck is too large to hold the specimen upright, you may stuff a small wad of paper towel in the neck beside the specimen. When you cut your specimen, be sure to include some foliage as the judges like to see this (make sure the leaves are not under water).

DAVIDSON COUNTY AGRICULTURAL FAIR ASSOCIATION

GOOD WORKING METHODS FOR FLOWER DESIGNING

1. Select a container to harmonize in texture and color with the plant material.
2. Have a design in mind before you start. Study branches for their most interesting lines first, then prune to eliminate unrelated parts. After the framework is formed, fill in with supplementary branches and flowers, but do not let these dominate the strong outline of design.
3. Select flowers and leaves in different stages of development so as to depict the cycle of growth (bud, partly opened flower, fully opened flower).
4. To achieve depth, place your materials so some bend forward, some backward.
5. Avoid crowding the container.
6. Mechanics should be concealed.
7. Have interesting voids and spaces, unequally distributed to add interest and variety.
8. Develop good balance and equilibrium and overall unity.
9. Good flower holders are a "must". They must be well anchored with floral clay, or paraffin, etc.
10. Show part of your container, especially if you use a low bowl, plate or plaque.
11. Use only accessories which are related in color, texture or spirit.

MISTAKES TO AVOID

1. A cluttered effect with too many points of interest.
2. Poor proportions - either too tall or too short plant material in relation to the container.
3. Target flowers that point at the viewer.
4. Flowers and branches that point downward giving the appearance of wilting or fraying.
5. Sharp breaks of branch or stem.
6. Plant material touching the rim of the container, or being submerged in water.
7. Flowers or branches in steps.
8. One branch or flower obscuring another.
9. Lines parallel to each other.
10. Using stems that are the same length and uninterestingly spaced.

PRINCIPLES OF DESIGN

1. Balance is visual stability. The axis is always vertical, because balance is related to the force of gravity. Balance should be evident when viewed from all sides. The eye needs stimulation to enjoy. A static design cannot hold the interest for long. When all objects have equal visual force on either side of an imagined axis, they cancel out each other, resulting in lack of motion, interest, and life. You need color balance and depth, balance, etc. Only experience will develop visual skill.
 - a. Symmetrical balance is attained by having the two sides as nearly alike as possible.
 - b. Asymmetrical balance has greater appeal. It is equal visual balance achieved by use of size, color, line and texture of plant material in the design.

The following appear heavier; denser and bolder forms, larger sizes, darker colors, and coarser textures. Their opposites appear lighter in weight. Forms have more visual weight than closed spaces, closed spaces more than open spaces. Elements higher up in the design and further away from the axis appear heavier than those nearer the center.

2. Rhythm is the smooth flow of material and color which carries the eye easily through the design. It is usually attained by the use of repetition, gradation and line direction. Rhythm makes a design appear to be alive, rather than at rest.
3. Proportion is the relationship of areas and amounts to each other and to the whole; deals in amounts. A proportion seems right when we feel neither too much or too little of any element or characteristic - amount of plant material to container; amount of round forms to spikes; occupied space to unoccupied space; rough texture to smooth; light color areas to dark.
4. Scale deals with size alone. It is only when contrast in size is too great that components are out of scale; size of one object to another; size of object as compared to container; size of arrangement to its niche or placement; size of accessory to container.
5. Contrast is difference, the placing of opposite or unlike elements together in such a way as to emphasize differences. Contrast of equals divides attention and too much contrast of too many elements results in confusion.
6. Dominance implies subordination. For something to be more effective, something else must be less effective. Subordinate interest can be provided by similar but weaker material or by contrasting material.

CONFORMANCE (TO SCHEDULE)

Has the designer followed the schedule (class and theme) and met basic requirements? Does it fit comfortably into the allowed space?

INTERPRETATION

When a design fails to communicate anything, leaves a feeling of indifference or confusion, points can be justly deducted in a class intended to be expressive. Modern designers limit themselves to 2 or 3 colors, textures and kinds, always with one dominating. The effect of quality is achieved through perceptive selection, careful construction and well-groomed, clearly defined, clean material; fitness to theme, mechanical proficiency, dignity.

A GOOD DESIGN NEEDS

- Repetition to activate the eye.
- Some variety to hold the interest.
- A bit of contrast for visual impact.
- A well balanced equilibrium, vertically, horizontally and in depth.
- Rhythm to give vital movement.
- Dominating element to tie the spaces and solids together.
